¶65.12 RECORDED VOTE

A recorded vote by electronic device was ordered in the Committee of the Whole on the following amendment submitted by Mr. MAVROULES:

At the end of title X (page 202, after line 23), insert the following new section:

SEC. 1056. NUCLEAR WEAPONS REDUCTION.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

(1) on February 1, 1992, the President of the United States and the President of the Russian Federation agreed in a Joint Statement that “Russia and the United States do not regard each other as potential adversaries” and stated further that, “We will work to remove any remnants of cold war hostility, including taking steps to reduce our strategic arsenals”;

(2) in the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, in exchange for the non-nuclear-weapon states agreeing not to seek a nuclear weapons capability nor to assist other non-nuclear-weapon states in doing so, the United States agreed to seek the complete elimination of all nuclear weapons worldwide, as declared in the preamble to the Treaty, which states that it is a goal of the parties to the Treaty to “facilitate the cessation of the manufacture of nuclear weapons, the liquidation of all their existing stockpiles, and the elimination from national arsenals of nuclear weapons and the means of their delivery” as well as in Article VI of the Treaty, which states that “each of the parties to the Treaty undertakes to pursue negotiations in good faith on effective measures relating to the cessation of the nuclear arms race at an early date and to nuclear disarmament”;

(3) carrying out a policy of seeking significant and continuous reductions in the nuclear arsenals of all countries, besides reducing the likelihood of the proliferation of nuclear weapons and increasing the likelihood of a successful extension and possible strengthening of the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons in 1995, when the Treaty is scheduled for review and possible extension, has additional benefits to the national security of the United States, including—

(A) a reduced risk of accidental enablement and launch of a nuclear weapon, and

(B) a defense cost savings which could be reallocated for deficit reduction or other important national needs;

(4) proposals by the President of the United States and the President of the Russian Federation to reduce strategic nuclear arsenals to approximately 4,700 and 2,500 weapons, respectively, are commendable intermediate stages in the process of achieving the policy goals described in paragraphs (1) and (2);

(5) before the unsuccessful 1991 coup d’etat in the former Soviet Union, the National Academy of Sciences proposed the possibility of eventual reductions of strategic nuclear warheads to 1,000 to 2,000 in the United States and the former Soviet Union;

(6) the current international era of cooperation provides greater opportunities for achieving worldwide reduction and control of nuclear weapons and material than any time since the emergence of nuclear weapons 50 years ago; and

(7) it is imperative in the security interests of both the United States and the world community for the President and the Congress to begin the process of reducing the number of nuclear weapons in every country.

(b) UNITED STATES POLICY.—It shall be the goal of the United States to—

(1) encourage and facilitate the denuclearization of Ukraine, Byelarus, and Kazakhstan, in accord with the stated desires of these former Soviet republics;

(2) implement agreed mutual reductions under the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks (START) Treaty on an accelerated time schedule, and facilitate the ability of the Russian Federation, Ukraine, Byelarus, and Kazakhstan to accomplish these reductions;

(3) reach immediate agreement with the Russian Federation to reduce the number of strategic nuclear weapons in each country’s arsenal to a level within a range defined by the levels proposed by the President of the Russian Federation, 2,500, and the President of the United States, 4,700, to include the downloading of multiple warhead ballistic missiles;

(4) as soon as practicable after such an agreement is achieved, reach agreement with the Russian Federation, the United Kingdom, France, and the People’s Republic of China to reduce the number of strategic nuclear warheads in each country’s arsenal to the lowest level consistent with the National Academy of Sciences-endorsed range of 1000 to 2000 for the United States and the Russian Federation, with lower levels for the other countries, that maintains strategic stability;

(5) through continuing negotiations reach subsequent agreements with the Russian Federation, the United Kingdom, France, the People’s Republic of China, and threshold nuclear states to make significant, stage-by-stage reductions in the number of nuclear weapons in all countries, with the pace of such reductions being contingent on several factors, including—

(A) advances in verification, safeguard, and export control methods and technologies;

(B) increased participation in the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons and other nuclear nonproliferation agreements;

(C) strengthened and improved political relations among all countries; and

(D) the degree to which further multilateral nuclear arms reductions will enhance rather than hinder United States national security;

(6) continue and extend cooperative discussions with the appropriate authorities of the former Soviet military on means to maintain and improve secure command and control over nuclear forces;

(7) in consultation with other member countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other allies, initiate immediate multilateral negotiations to facilitate the eventual elimination of tactical nuclear weapons in all countries;

(8) provide immediate United States assistance that would be available to securely dismantle, transport, and store, and ultimately dismantle, former Soviet nuclear weapons and missiles for such weapons; and

(9) achieve a worldwide, verifiable agreement to end by 1995 the production of plutonium and highly enriched uranium for weapons purposes and to place existing stockpile of such materials under bilateral or international controls.

(c) ANNUAL REPORT.—By January 1 of each year, the President shall submit to the Congress a report on—

(1) the actions that the United States has taken, and the actions the United States plans to take during the next 12 months, to achieve each of the policy objectives set forth in paragraphs (1) through (9) of subsection (b); and

(2) the actions that have been taken by the Russian Federation, by other former Soviet republics, and by other countries to achieve those policy objectives.

These reports shall be unclassified, with a classified appendix if necessary.
